Georgian scenery and novelty of theme add an unusual note to Emil Jannings' sixth American masterpiece, "Betrayal," which opens today at the Fox-California theater. Two leading Paramount featured players, Esther Ralston and Gary Cooper, carry important supporting roles in this powerful drama set in the Swiss Alps.

"Betrayal" places Jannings in an entirely new environment and offers him a story worthy of his great histrionic power. Jumping by a family arrangement, a young girl already in love with a young artist, Jannings is the typical home-loving good natured and self centered burger and to this character, he brings all his wonderful interpretative art. Esther Ralston plays the part of the girl who and Gary Cooper is her youthful sweetheart.

The infinite care and first-class attention to detail which went into the making of "Betrayal" are evident throughout. Swiss customs and costumes are minutely copied and the outdoor photography is wonderfully well done. The scenes are colorful, the majestic snow covered back grounds of mountain country. "Betrayal" is indeed another Jannings masterpiece, a picture that no one who wants to see the best and outstanding production of the American screen can afford to miss. Also a two reel all talking comedy entitled "A Bird in the Hand" and Fox News will be shown.

GODLESS GIRL OUTSTANDING OF SEASON

After weeks of consideration Cecil B. DeMille chose Lina Basquette for the season's outstanding screen role—that of "The Godless Girl" in his latest melodrama of the same name, a dialogue and sound production which will be on view at the Fox-California theater on Tuesday.

The selection of Miss Basquette followed on of the most exhaustive searches for a particular feminine type. The role of "The Godless Girl" was most exacting, for as the central figure of Jeanie MacPherson's dramatic story, Miss Basquette was called upon for every type of scene, from comedy to emotional drama.

Beginning her career as a child actress, Miss Basquette appeared for two seasons as premiere dancer of Ziegfeld's "Follies." Her youthful charm and bodily grace paved the way for a successful career in pictures, which was hardly well started before she won this most picturesque opportunity with DeMille. She recently appeared opposite Richard Barthelmess in "The Noose," and with Adolphe Menjou in "The Serenade."

"The Godless Girl" was written by Jeanie MacPherson, who also adapted "The Ten Commandments" and "The King of Kings" to the screen. The cast includes Marie Prevost, George Duryea, Noah Beery, Eddie C. Allan, Kate Price and Julia Faye.

Also a two reel comedy called "Kitchen Talent" and a well balanced program.

Kelly, Friends On Fishing Trip

W. P. Kelly, president of the Fish and Game Protective association of El Cerrito, accompanied by some friends, spent the week end fishing in the north bay trout stream in the north bay. The group returned with the limit. Kelly caught a mountain rainbow trout that measured 22 1/2 inches and weighed two pounds and that gave Kelly a battle royal until it was finally landed.

SYNOPSIS
Through a blinding rainstorm on Express train is flying across Europe towards Paris. In a private compartment are three friends, Ivan, a Russian; Armand, a Frenchman; and Emil, a German. They are a French girl to share their seats, each trying to flirt with her, when the conductor ushers in a priest. Then two Americans, Jim Travis and Al, seeing the vacant places, take possession of them. Travis becomes interested in the girl, who speaks English. An argument between the priest and the three friends arises, the three men laughing at the priest's solemn beliefs. Suddenly there is a crash.

CHAPTER III
Out of the darkness rose red tumult. Shrieks of the maimed and mangled. Moans of the dying. Keening and wailing of those who watched. Battering and begging for preservation of self. Flares of orange-bright fire. Licking tongues of flames. Cracking of wood. Smothering smoke smells. And over all the sharp pelt of rain, sizzling and cutting, mercilessly drenching and soaking.

The engine and forward coaches of the Express train had but a moment before been flying so fearlessly through the night now they on their sides, panting, palpitating, like a Gargantuan steed as its final race is being run. The nose of the engine pointed downward, overhanging the wild, rushing river that frothed below. A mass of stone and iron girders that had

"Jehosophat!" Travis whistled through his closed teeth. "Al! Say, I wonder what has happened to him? Do you suppose he got out all right? I ought to go and look for him. Maybe he's in a jam some place. Think you can stand up?"

"Yes, please, I can stand. You look for your friend."

NASH DEALER LAUDS TWIN IGNITION

Since the advent of the Nash "400" series there has been a wealth of glowing comment on the striking speed, power and flexibility of the new motors which power the Advanced and Special six models. These motorists have created a distinctly new phase of motoring, according to Ray K. Dorr, local Nash dealer.

"In fact," Dorr said, "this new type of engine has created an additional following for Nash and has caused a searching study on the part of motorists to ascertain the reasons for this unusual performance."

"The answer lies in the fact that Nash engineers incorporated for the first time five great advanced principles of design in this engine. It is not overstepping the bounds of truth to say that they pioneered to such an extent that their achievements have brought wider recognition than almost any other phase of automobile development in recent months."

"Twin ignition is the keystone of the wonderful performance records which we are constantly getting from '400' owners. This dual ignition, brought about by the use of two airplane type spark plugs to each cylinder instead of the conventional one, contributes to the smoother operation and more efficient use of high compression and increased power."

"The other four improvements which operate jointly with dual ignition to promote engine efficiency are high compression valve in-head construction, Rohm and Haas aluminum pistons and a seven-bearing crankshaft with hollowed crank pins which greatly reduce centrifugal load and increase the speed."

$21.70 Average Tax Of Motorist

The average private passenger automobile in this country pays a yearly tax of $21.70, according to a report from the National Automobile Club. The average tax of the private motor truck equals $49.80 that of the common carrier truck equals $203.00 while the common carrier bus averages $512.00.

Automobiles Growing Death Agency, Report

Just how great a hazard the automobile really is in modern life is indicated in recent tabulations reported to the California State Automobile association from Michigan. The report shows, for instance, the relative price (taken by preventable accidents as death agencies, in that state, it records that, for the ages from 5 to 9, diphtheria has first place, the automobile second, while drowning holds seventh place.

For the ages of 10 to 14, the automobile has third place, and drowning has sixth place.

For the ages of 15 to 19, tuberculosis has first place, the automobile second, appendicitis third and drowning fourth place.

Even for the ages of 20 to 24, the automobile still has third place as a cause of death, and drowning sixth place.

In every five-year age group, up to that of 75 to 79 years, the automobile shows as one of the ten most important causes of death.

It is evident from the report, points out the Automobile association, that the lessening of the hazard of streets and highways is one of the important problems of modern civilization.

Clean Radiator Aids Car Motor

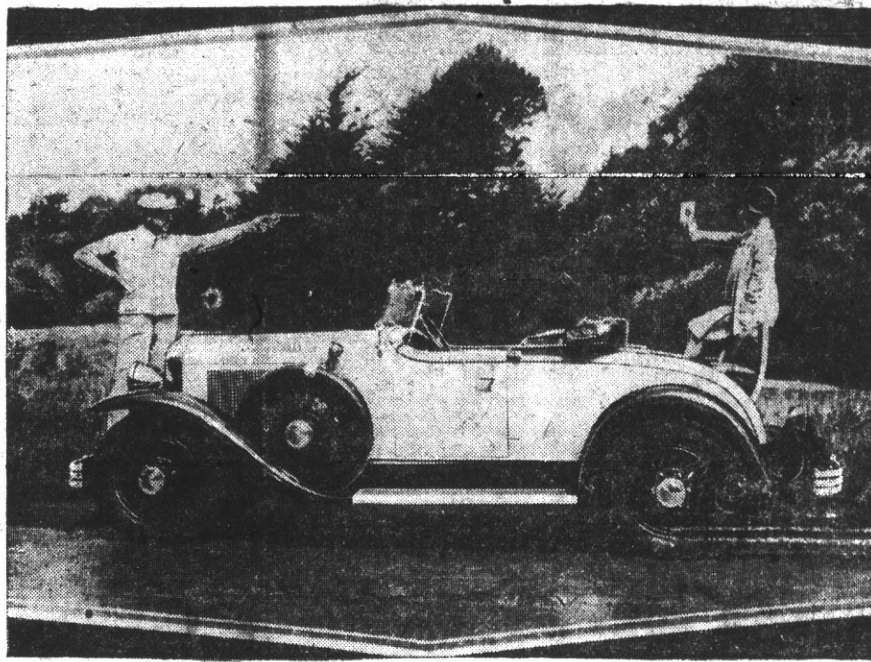

Periodical flushing of the cooling system is a wise habit to form, suggests L. G. Evans, general service manager of the National Automobile club. Even with the enlarged cooling systems in use at the present day, the formation of scale is quite apt to cause serious damage unless the system receives regular attention.

Experts Prepare For 1940 Traffic

Traffic count statistics lead to the following conclusions in determining the width of pavement necessary to care for the estimated traffic of 1940, remarks the National Automobile club; two lane roadway—700 vehicles per hour; three lane roadway—2000 vehicles per hour; four lane roadway—3200 vehicles per hour.

English Machine Drivers Retain Customs Of Old

The present custom in England, of driving on the left side of the road, may be traced back to antiquity. In the good old days states the National Automobile club, when horses were ridden and spears were used, it was vitally important that the real or potential enemy be on the right.

To the left hand fell the duty of guiding the mount; the thrust of the spear and the backward sweep of the sword could only be accomplished by the knight mounted on the right-hand side of the horse. All rules and regulations enforced their keeping on the left of this obstruction. Our present day white line marking the center of the highway is undoubtedly a survival of that system.

CHRYSLER ROAD TESTS AID OWNERS

While machinery is daily replacing man in the production of life's necessities and luxuries, it is only through machinery designed by master engineering brains that motor cars of today may be turned out in great quantities without sacrificing quality. The American motor car industry is one of the greatest employers of labor in the world, but the accuracy of work done in the manufacture of automobiles is to no great extent dependent upon the human equation and its natural liability to err.

Chrysler engineers, in association with Fred M. Zuder, vice president in charge of engineering for Chrysler Motors, are among the leading scientists in the automotive industry who recognize the fact that no matter how perfectly trained a man may be, he cannot always be accurate. They find this particularly true with regard to the myriad of tests through which materials and parts must go before entering into the production of a Chrysler-built car. Consequently the various departments of the Chrysler plants are equipped with the most modern scientific instruments for testing new inventions and parts which actually are to be used in production operations.

From delicate scales which can accurately register the increased weight of a sheet of paper upon which a pencil mark has been placed, Chrysler engineering apparatus ranges up to a unique and powerful machine upon which finished cars are given "road tests more severe than any human being could endure driving on a 'proving ground'."

Through the use of this machine a Chrysler car is put to rigid and accurate road tests equal to driving at all speeds over roads of every imaginable condition. The advantage of this machine is that the road reaction can be and is carefully observed and records are immediately made of any weaknesses that develop.

In this test the car is driven on the machine so each of its four wheels rest upon two rollers. The rollers are driven by the car's rear wheels. Special gearing connects the rear with the front rollers which in turn rotate the forward wheels of the car at the same speed.

On each roller are mounted irregularly spaced, raised metal cleats and while the motor is turning over these severely bump and toss the car about. Automatic controls leading to the accelerator make it possible to "drive" the car at any desired speed and assist in producing a wide range of road conditions, such as no owner would subject his car or himself to in hundreds of thousands of miles.

Commenting on the value of these "accelerated road tests," N. G. Hadley, of the Chrysler engineering staff, declares "In trips west and south, particularly about the oil fields of Texas, we find road conditions closely approach-

Engineers Face New Problems For Highways

Each day brings forth changes in the mechanical and operative designs of motor cars, buses and trucks; periodically the speed laws of the various states are rewritten to allow a higher maximum rate of travel; day by day the motorists are demanding that more attention be paid to the scenic advantages of our highways. All these points unite in supplying the highway engineers of our country with an entirely new and more complicated set of problems.

The men responsible for the solving of these many problems and for the steady advancement in the design and construction of the traffic arteries throughout the United States, are meeting their obligations in a most thorough and satisfactory manner. This may be witnessed by any motorist willing to drop for a short space of time the present day American attitude of taking everything for granted, and who will stop and ponder over the splendid work being accomplished in supplying us with our stupendous network of modern highways.

From a practical standpoint, bothersome grades are being consistently eliminated, curves are being straightened, widened and banked, the range of visibility is being increased on the straightaway, as well as on the curves, guard rails are being strengthened and their mileage greatly increased. Factors of safety are being sought in the elimination of grade crossings and the installation of more adequate signalling devices.

From the standpoint of beauty, landmarks and beauty spots are being preserved, bridges and culverts are being designed to harmonize with their surroundings.

OIL FOR NEW MOTOR MADE BY SHELL

In order to keep in step with the automobile manufacturers who are constantly changing their models and designs, accessory industries must go to considerable expense. To meet the new demands created by these changes, the related industries have to remodel their plants and even build new ones.

"If a business is to thrive it must be always ready to change its plant, equipment and often its products to keep in step with progress," E. J. Miller, vice president, in charge of sales, of the Shell Oil company, stated. "These changes cause no end of expense, but the public must be served."

"It is seldom that a manufacturer has to make such radical changes as designing a new process of manufacture or building a complete new plant. But when this is done a small fortune is usually involved in the designing and building."

"The Shell Oil company offers a good example of this sort of progress."

"The adoption of high-compression heads by nearly all of the automobile manufacturers created a great demand for an oil that would be suitable for these new type motors. Tests made with many oils that were otherwise good lubricants revealed that they formed too much hard, coke-like carbon that would tend to fill the small space allowed for clearance between the head and the tops of the pistons, often as little as 1-32 of an inch."

"Numerous experiments were carried on with old-style oils but none was found suitable for high compression engines."

our highway engineers are keeping up with the demands of science and public opinion.

Niles Canyon Road Boosted

According to a statement made by George Posey, county engineer of Alameda county, and engineer in charge of the construction of the famous Posey tube between Alameda and Oakland, Niles Canyon offers the only water-level route between the interior of the state and the Bay regions.

Niles Canyon reports the touring department of the National Automobile club, is one of the most popular destinations for the bay region motorist contemplating a Sunday drive or picnic. The opening of the new Richmond bridge in the canyon, the great amount of road work completed, with more planned for the near future, makes it possible for one to thoroughly enjoy the scenic attractions of the wonderful territory to which Niles is the gateway.

The Water Temple at Sunol, the Calaveras dam, the Castlewood Country club, Amador valley, and the prosperous regions devoted to farming, dairying and fruit raising are all readily accessible from Niles. The trip to that city, from any point around the bay, is in itself a most pleasant journey for the motorist.

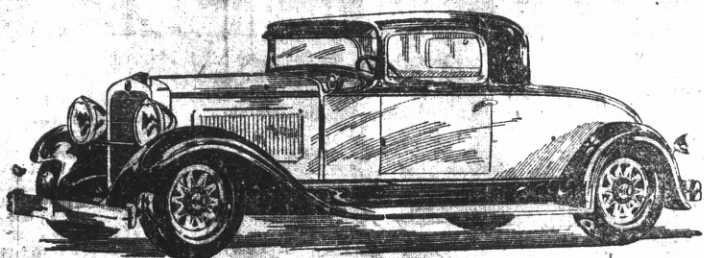

compression needs. It was necessary to devise an entirely new high-vacuum process to produce an oil that would answer the specifications set down by the new type motors. This was done at a considerable expense and an added expenditure running well into six figures was necessary to build two new complete plants.

"The new Shell motor oil has met the new demands of the modern motorists with an oil that forms only 1-3 to 1-5 as much carbon as even the most expensive oils, and the little carbon that it does form is merely a soft soot that easily blows out with the exhaust gases."

THOMAS LAUDS ROADSTER MODEL

That 1929 will see the roadster come into its own again on a wave of popularity such as this body type has never before enjoyed is the prediction made by L. J. Thomas, Studebaker president.

"Judging by the interest shown in the new Studebaker Commander roadsters since their introduction at the automobile shows, it seems likely that these roadsters will be the most popular sport body types on the road this year."

"It is only natural that the roadster should stage a come-back," Thomas added. "Motorists desire to-day more than ever the smart, swanky body lines and the alert, snappy performance which are combined in such cars as Studebaker roadsters. And I think, too, that there is a growing number of drivers—and this class is not confined entirely to the younger set—who like the freedom of an open roadster."

"The attitude of this latter group is like that of the veteran aviator who was asked what he thought of the comfortable new cabin planes. They're all right," he said, "but give me an open ship for the real thrill of flying. I want my nose out in the wind."

"Certainly the new Studebaker Commander roadsters offer the supreme thrill of motoring. Their low, graceful lines emphasize the power and brilliant performance of the silent, smooth motor under the long hood. The top folds flat into a crisply tailored coat. The windshield with its non-shattering safety glass, folds forward into a flat position. The body gleams with bright chromium plate on radiator, headlamps, and other metal work, including even the big hub caps and rims of the wire wheels."

"The seat is wide and deep, cushioned, and the front cockpit is upholstered in genuine leather. No detail has been overlooked that would add to the driver's comfort and convenience. The slim, steel core safety steering wheel is adjustable, as are also the clutch and brake pedals."

"The new treadle type accelerator and both pedals are fitted with rubber pads. Two automatic windshield wipers are standard equipment. The dash carries an electric coast light in addition to the usual instruments, and a convenient look-to-steering wheel is located on the steering column. The right hand door is fitted with a lock and contains a convenient set of tools.

Six Or Eight "The Commander roadster is available with either a six cylinder or straight eight motor, both endowed with the same qualities of championship performance that have won such an enviable reputation for this great car in the past two years."

"The Commander chassis has a wheelbase of 120 inches, cradled on long semi-elliptic springs and fitted with hydraulic shock absorbers and ball bearing spring shackles. The chassis is nondescript for its fine balance and roadability at all speeds, and incorporates the new double drop frame construction which assures comfort and convenience. The low center of gravity essential to such road stability."

"Anticipating the popularity of the new Commander roadsters were destined to receive, Studebaker developed three roadster bodies to suit a wide range of requirements. Both the Commander six and Commander eight can be had in a four-passenger Rega roadster with five wire wheels and a comfortable rumble seat for the extra row. These are priced at $1450 and $1595 respectively. The Commander six is also available in a four-passenger roadster with wood wheels at $1375 factory, and a business roadster for two in which the rear deck is used to provide ample carrying capacity for luggage or equipment. This car is also fitted with wood wheels and priced at $1375 at the factory."

Don't Start Car Until Ferry Stops

With the advent of the summer touring season, when many motorists will be using automobile ferries, the California State Automobile association issues a reminder that there is a strict federal regulation against allowing automobile engines to run while the ferry boat is in motion. This safety measure requires that the engine be shut off as soon as the car is parked on the ferry and that it not be started until the ferry is docked.

WESTERN AUTO IN AID TO TOURISTS

The family who has decided to spend the summer vacation on a camping trip might begin to "stop around" and see which of the many available trips offers the most for the money, advises R. J. Kelley, local manager for the Western Auto Supply company.

With such a wide variety, it is often difficult to select any certain trip that will please all members of the family. The tour, if wisely chosen, will fit the needs, as well as the purses of all. Modern camping equipment which has done much toward getting America out into the open during the summer months, gives the vacationist a home away from home and enables him to take many inexpensive trips which otherwise could not be considered.

There is no substitute for auto-camping, as it offers a wide variety of diversion suitable for all members of the family. Take the average family—no two want to do the same thing or go to the same place. Dad wants to spend his vacation fishing; mother needs relief from the daily drudge and the hot kitchen, so she chooses the seashore. The answer? Take them all auto-camping.

Plan Ahead The itinerary of a vacation should be planned weeks before the trip is actually begun. Definite plans should be formulated and many problems must be solved. How many are going on the trip? What is to be the aim of the trip? What points of interest are to be seen? How many miles can comfortably be covered in a day? What accommodations are to be had along the way? Where to camp at night? These are but a few of the problems that should be solved before starting out.

With a road map or touring atlas, such as may be obtained from any Western Auto store, many touring problems can be worked out over the library table. This map, together with a list of recommended auto camps will help in planning the trip.

The average man who goes wrong on a camping trip is usually the man who took too much for granted and started out unprepared. One fine day he decides to go, he throws a few articles of camping equipment into the car, ties the rest to the running boards and is on his way with little thought of what actually will be needed.

Proper Tools Without a doubt more auto vacations have been ruined by the lack of proper equipment and proper preparation than from any other cause. Trips that were intended to bring rest and recreation brought hard work and discontent—all due to lack of proper preparation.

The average amateur auto camper takes too much equipment along and the old-timer often takes too little. A happy medium must be struck between these two extremes. The man who sets the greatest amount of enjoyment out of his trip is the man who takes the least amount of equipment, yet has everything that will be needed. The less you have to handle and unpack, the better you will get along.

AUTO ON INCREASE There were 1,247,122 more cars in the United States on the first day of February, 1929, than there were on the corresponding day of 1928, states a report from the National Automobile club.

PISTOL EXPERT USES BUICK ROADSTER

There are very few, if any, communities on the Pacific coast and in the middle west where the name and fame of Captain A. H. Hardy, holder of world's marksmanship championships, are unknown. Captain Hardy has just completed one of the most strenuous exhibition itineraries ever undertaken during his long career and has emerged with a notable addition to his long list of shooting championships.

Among the newest achievements credited to the captain is a world record in clanking up 13,066 consecutive rifle hits on wooden balls, two and one-quarter inches in diameter, fired automatically into the air. Another has been his feat, performed numerous times recently, of unerringly crashing clay pigeons with his rifle while traveling forty miles an hour in his Buick automobile.

In fact, during recent months much of his exhibition shooting has been done from an automobile. Captain Hardy stated in a recent letter to C. C. Kratzer,

Laws Protect Cactus, Yucca

Motorists must observe the laws against digging up cactus plants and yuccas on southern California deserts or suffer the consequences, according to the California State Automobile association. During one week-end in Riverside county recently there were 21 persons arrested for having in their possession cactus or yucca plants, for which they had no permits. They were fined $25 each.

In some localities signs have been posted warning motorists against appropriating the plants, but ignorance of the law is no excuse, trouble is liable to ensue for all who do not obey it.

Local Buick dealer, "And naturally I have had to use a car which is practically one hundred percent free from vibration. Having owned eleven consecutive Buicks, I accordingly turned to the same car for my exhibition work, and it has certainly filled the bill to my complete satisfaction."

Recently, standing on the front bumper of a 1929 Buick sport roadster while the engine was running, the captain placed 12 consecutive shots through a minute bullet-eye target held by a comely woman assistant. Captain Hardy's recent exhibitions have been given under sponsorship of the Peters Cartridge company.

Car Club Aids Travels In Other Lands

Although "keep to the right" is almost universally the European rule of the road, Great Britain, Hungary, Sweden, the Irish Free State and a few other European nations still require driving to the left, according to the California State Automobile association.

While motoring in foreign lands is now greatly simplified and the car owner will have little trouble in motoring across border lines, there are requirements that must be met, just as in the United States.

To advise American car owners of these conditions and how to meet them, the foreign travel division of the American Automobile association maintains close contact with governmental officials and motorclubs in all foreign countries.

Keep Windshield Wiper Well Oiled

When it becomes necessary to remove the cover plate to lubricate the mechanism of the vacuum windshield wiper, be certain that the gasket is replaced in a manner which allows no air leakage, warns L. G. Evans, general service manager, National Automobile club.

27 STATES TO DEVELOP PARKS

Twenty seven states are now creating and developing state parks along lines similar to the work being done in California, according to the California State Automobile association. The recent bond issue in this state will go far toward meeting the demand for more outdoor areas devoted to public use, a demand that is growing with the steady increase in the use of automobiles.

Starter Pinion May Cause Jam

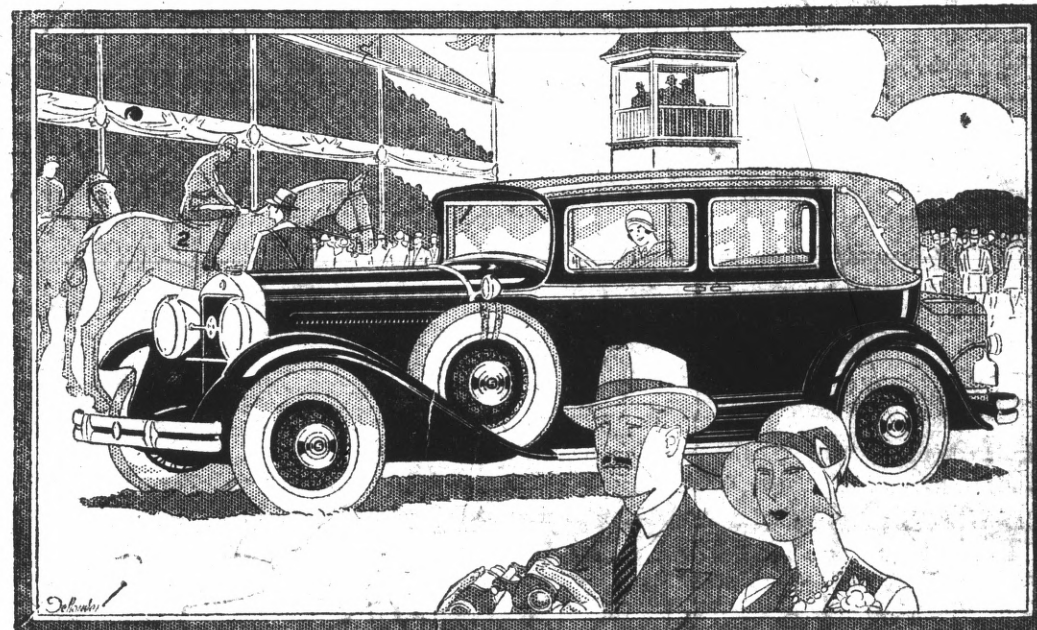

A jammed starter is not an uncommon occurrence, and is usually caused by the starter pinion jamming with the fly-wheel.

When the starter pedal is depressed, the pinion on the starting motor engages with the fly-wheel. If it is not thrown free, the motor usually stops with the gears jammed. Often they can be released by shifting to high gear and rocking the car backward and forward. If this procedure fails to release the gears, the car should be towed to a repair shop with the gears in neutral.

CAR CHANGES TRACED BY DEALER

"Style improvement has been more pronounced and rapid in the automobile industry than in any other business," said Adam Weisgerber of 412 Macdonald avenue, local dealers for the De Soto six, a Chrysler Motors product recently in discussing the evolution of the modern automobile from the days of the horse-drawn vehicle.

"Until the advent of the motor car progress in style development of carriages for personal transportation was slow. The designs varied but little for centuries, until with the coming of the automobile, every effort was made to render the bodies more comfortable and attractive to the eye. In the early days, design and styles naturally were copied from the lines of the leading types of carriage. And as their appearance improved the makers retained the names of the favored vehicles of the past. Thus we have today the coupe, roadster, brougham, limousine, victoria and sedan though they would hardly be recognized by the old coach makers who originated style when horse was king."

"The leading influence in style during the past five years in the development of the automobile has been the Chrysler Motors group, in which the De Soto six has taken an outstanding place since its introduction less than a year ago. All Chrysler built cars have predominating features which set them apart from other cars, in beauty of line, in performance and in body construction."

"Perhaps the most startling and far-reaching change in the evolution of the various types is seen in the sedan. For hundreds of years this fashionable equipment was considered the height of luxury and refinement as footmen carried its owners through narrow streets of towns and cities of the past. Champed, stuffy and enclosed from view the leading ladies of the countries in which it was popular were jostled and jostled about from place to place."

"Contrast the narrow, unwieldy sedan of those days with the modern sedan for instance. Imagine the court favorite, Madame Du Barry in her mass of befringed skirts and high pompadour securely wedged into the richly upholstered and gilded but extremely uncomfortable sedan and compare it with the luxury, comfort and riding ease of the modern De Soto six sedan with its unusual roominess, wide seats, and easy riding qualities."

"It requires but little imagination to realize the great strides that have been made since those times."

Water which is known to contain an appreciable amount of alkali should never be used in the radiator.

Natural Bridges Found In New National Park

Uncle Sam now has 33 national monuments under the jurisdiction of the national park service, according to the California State Automobile Association. The latest addition to this interesting list is a new national monument known as the Arches in Grand County, Utah.

This new scenic attraction consists of two areas containing approximately 26,000 and 1,920 acres respectively. Extraordinary examples of wind erosion in the form of gigantic arches, natural bridges, windows, spires, balanced rocks and other unique, wind-worn, sandstone formations are to be found within these areas.

National Parks System Enlarged

The are of the national park system has been enlarged by an increase of nearly 200 square miles, according to advices received by the California State Automobile Association from the department of the interior. Yellowstone park was increased by the addition of 78 square miles on its north and east boundaries to take in the headwaters of the Lamar river. This increased territory will remain a virgin wilderness as no roads, hotels, or camps will be constructed within its confines.

Another important increase was the addition of 39 square miles of interesting volcanic territory to Lassen National park in northern California.

Keep Contact Points Correct

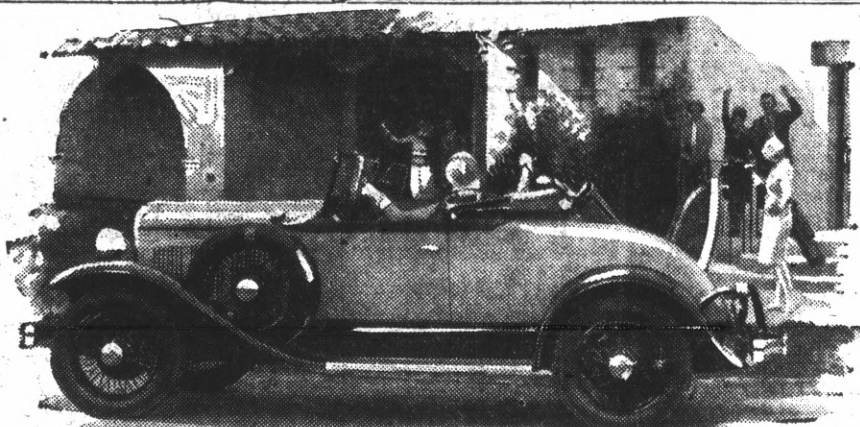

Usually a motor performs perfectly at higher speeds yet bucks and misfires at slow or idling speeds. However, this difficulty is occasionally reversed and the misfiring is encountered at high speeds.

It is possible that setting the contact points closer together will eliminate the trouble. This gives a little longer time of contact and allows the current in the coil to build up. Unless you are an expert, have your electrician make the adjustment.

Oil Dilution Hard On Motor

Crack-case dilution is an important feature governing the economical operation of an automobile. The most serious result of water and gasoline getting into the oil is due to the amount of dirt and carbon which they carry with them. Cars equipped with an oil filter will eliminate these deposits but the dilution of the lubricant must be offset by an occasional draining and re-filling of the crankcase.

Call Of The Greens

SPRING DAYS that call motorists to open highways usually lead to country clubs where the stored-up energy of the winter confinement finds an outlet on the golf course. The smart, dashing DeSoto six roadster, reflects the spirit of the season.

Clogged Vent On Vacuum Tank May Disable Machine

The vacuum type of fuel system on some cars will occasionally refuse to work. Among other possible difficulties, such as a leak in the windshield wiper tube dirt in the line there is a vent in the vacuum tank around the filler cap that must be kept open. A piece of wire should be run through this vent occasionally to make sure that it is not obstructed.

Oil Gauge Aids Trouble Hunting

If the oil pressure gauge fails to work, throw out the clutch and accelerate the motor. If this test fails to show any pressure, it is a sign that something is wrong with the oiling system. If you have sufficient oil, check the strainer, oil feed tubes and pump. It is possible that oil pipes within the cylinder block may be clogged. The entire oiling system should be cleaned to avoid further trouble.

Seven Car, Wagon Crashes In Month

There were seven accidents involving the automobile and the horse reported during the month of January, in California, according to the National Automobile club. None of these proved fatal to the passengers. The results to the horses were not reported.

1904 PONTIAC FOUND IN EAST

The story of the unknown relative who suddenly crops up at a family gathering had a counterpart at Pittsburgh, Pa., lately, when a Pontiac car, built years ago, bubbled into the limelight at the home of W. J. Frazier, whose father had purchased it about 1904. When A. R. Glascoy, president and general manager of the Oakland Motor Car company introduced the present line of Pontiac cars in 1926, they were believed to be the first automobiles so named until the uncovering of the old-timer here, according to J. P. Strom, local Oakland, Pontiac dealer.

A tricky and dilapidated one-seater, with a two-cylinder engine, a dash board, steel rimmed wheels and all other accoutrements demanded by the gay blades of the early 1900's, the car bears a place distinctly emblazoned with the name "Pontiac" and revealing the manufacturer as the Pontiac Motor Vehicle company. Subsequent investigation at Pontiac, Mich., home of the Oakland company discloses that such a firm was organized to build passenger cars, but that it had no connection with the Pontiac Buggy company which in 1907 evolved into the Oakland Motor Car company.

From official documents, aided by the memories of old residents at Pontiac, it has been learned that the Pontiac Motor Vehicle company had a transitory existence about 1904 or 1905 and then "fell by the wayside" as did many a similar venture at that early date leaving Frazier's car an orphan until it came out of storage to claim name-relationship with the present line of Pontiacs.

While the old-timer bears the mysterious label "Model 3, No. 99," it has been pretty definitely established that not more than 50 or 60 cars ever were built by the firm, a volume equaled today in only a few minutes on the assembly lines that turn out the new Pontiac big sixes.

Many To Visit National Parks

It is estimated that 2,500,000 people will visit the national parks of the country this year and that the greater percentage of these visitors will travel by automobile, reports the California State Automobile Association. The west's share of this travel movement is assured by the popularity of Yosemite, General Grant, Sequoia, Lassen, Volcanic, Crater Lake and Ranier national parks.

PUPILS TAUGHT SAFETY IN TRAFFIC

California school children are training to be a traffic wise and safety-minded generation of motorists and pedestrians. They are learning in the classroom to be aware of the hazards of streets and highways. Instruction in careful conduct in traffic and principles of "safety first" being given in the elementary schools is causing boys and girls to practice habits of caution that are saving lives and limbs.

This is evident in the records assembled by the public safety department of the California state automobile association which inaugurated the school safety training plan several years ago and has sponsored it since with the approval of educators and public officials. Schools of this section are among those in which the motorists' organization has placed Safety alongside reading, writing and arithmetic with the cooperation of school and police authorities.

Accidents Reduced
Since the general adoption of this plan, notable reductions have been attained in the traffic accident fatality rate among children of school age and this improvement has been credited chiefly to the safety educational work in schools. For instance, San Francisco's motor vehicle accident toll of 20 lives for the first three months of this year includes not a single child fatality, while the list of 29 for the same period a year ago included four children.

Motorists as well as the general public have watched with interest the progress of the legislation placing the state stamp of authority on this type of classroom work. This bill was sponsored before the Legislature by the California State Automobile Association and it has the endorsement of the California Committee on Public Safety. It provides for compulsory instruction in public safety and accident prevention especially on streets and highways in the elementary and secondary schools of the state and in normal schools and teachers' colleges. The measure provides for compilation of a safety manual for use by teachers and standardizing a course in public safety which would be a requirement for graduation of teachers.

Education Organized
Education in the avoidance of accidents on the streets, in the schools, on the playgrounds or at home is already well organized in practically all schools of the state through the combined activity of boards of education, parent teacher associations and the Automobile Association.

The instruction in carefulness has been incorporated in many studies and activities of the children in their classrooms. The youngsters build model street intersections, work arithmetic problems using accident statistics, present safety playlets and in many other ways learn how to avoid accidents.

Cities Respond
School safety patrols have been organized in 57 cities and in rural schools in every county and have proven to be a major factor in preventing accidents. The patrolmen of these School Traffic reserves, developed by the Automobile Association safety department, wear arm badges authorizing them to direct student traffic across streets and to protect other and especially smaller children, against danger in and around the schools and playgrounds.

Safety posters are distributed monthly by the Automobile Association to 12,500 classrooms. They constitute a big factor in keeping maxims of carefulness constantly before the minds of the children.

Twice across the continent Free!
Thousands of miles of De Soto Six motoring at no cost

Why pay more for a car than it costs to get just what you want?

Paying $1000 for a car typical of that price field will not give you any more in prestige, in beauty, in performance, in comfort, in riding ease, in dependability and in economy than De Soto Six gives for $845—over $150 less. In fact, all comparisons are in favor of De Soto.

Make these contrasts yourself. Drive a De Soto Six. Then try out a car in the $1000 class. If you are like the other thousands and thousands of motorists who have made this study of values, you will write a check for considerably less than you had expected to pay, and will get considerably more than you had expected to get. You'll lose no time adding your name to the rapidly increasing list of De Soto owners.

The money you thus save, you can use in running your new De Soto Six. At the average price of gas and oil, De Soto's saving of about $150 will be a gift to you of mileage equivalent to a luxurious trip twice across the continent, free of charge, in one of the smartest and most zestful sixes built today.

De Soto Six is Chrysler-built—a fashionable, beautiful car you will be proud to own in any company. Then why pay more than De Soto's moderate cost? Phone us for a trial without obligation.

Christian Science Lesson Subject

"Soul and Body" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon today in all churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon include the following from the Bible: "And great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jesus' feet; and he healed them: insomuch that the multitude wondered when they saw the dumb to speak, the maimed to be whole, the lame to walk, and the blind to see; and they glorified the God of Israel." Matt. 15:30, 31.

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Knowing that Soul and its attributes were forever manifested through man, the Master healed the sick; gave sight to the blind; hearing to the deaf; feet to the lame, thus bringing to light the scientific action of the divine Mind on human minds and bodies and giving a better understanding of Soul and salvation." CHRONIC CASE OF SORE LEG; LIMB TURNED BLACK; AMPUTATION POST-OPERATED BY FONG WAN HERBS
July 10, 1928.
To Whom It May Concern:
Oakland, Cal.
About 15 years ago I underwent an operation that left my leg in an ulcer condition from which I suffered a great deal. I treated it with many herbs, but got no relief. One wanted to operate on the leg; another wanted to amputate it.

About two and one-half years ago my leg turned black, and I was not able to wear a shoe. A friend told me about Fong Wan, so I consulted him. After following his instructions as to diet and taking the herbs that he compounded now after eleven months my leg is in normal condition, and I am in perfect health. MRS. MARY RUTH, 66 Monte Vista Ave., Oakland, Cal.

People who wish to learn more about Fong Wan's knowledge of herbs and methods of healing should get his new book free at his office or mailed to any address upon receipt of 10c postage.

PRESBYTERIANS FAVOR WOMEN PREACHING

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 25.—The three day old 141st Presbyterian general assembly today took two important steps in the direction of "progressivism."

By an overwhelming vote the assembly decided to submit to the Presbyteries of the nation an overture on whether women should be permitted to be ordained ministers and elders.

Conservatives Oppose

At the same time the assembly approved the action of the presbyteries in which they voted that willful desertion should not be eliminated as scriptural grounds for divorce. Both moves had been opposed by the more conservative element in the church, the element which believes that "woman's place is in the home," and that the divorce code should be tightened.

During the deliberations on these two matters the delegates forgot for a time one other highly interesting matter—the administration dispute at Princeton seminary.

Finances Sound

The nearly 1000 delegates, did, however, give attentive ears to still another question, that of their finances, particularly when J. William Smith, Philadelphia banker and chairman of the committee on budget and finance, announced that for the first time in the history of the Presbyterian church "the state had been cleared of debts."

The question of "women's equality" was not new to the general assembly. In 1920 the presbyteries voted on a similar proposal which was defeated by a narrow margin.

Nothing was done officially on the matter until this year when "the unrest of women" again became apparent and only early this week 100 representative women of the church met here in preassembly conference and decided to make another demand for equality in the ministry, eldership and general assembly.

Among the men who were quick to champion the women's cause was Dr. Robert Speer, New York, former moderator.

"No Scriptural Reason"

"There is no scriptural reason," Dr. Speer said, "why women should not be ordained ministers and elders. They always have done a great work in the church and it is high time they were given due recognition."

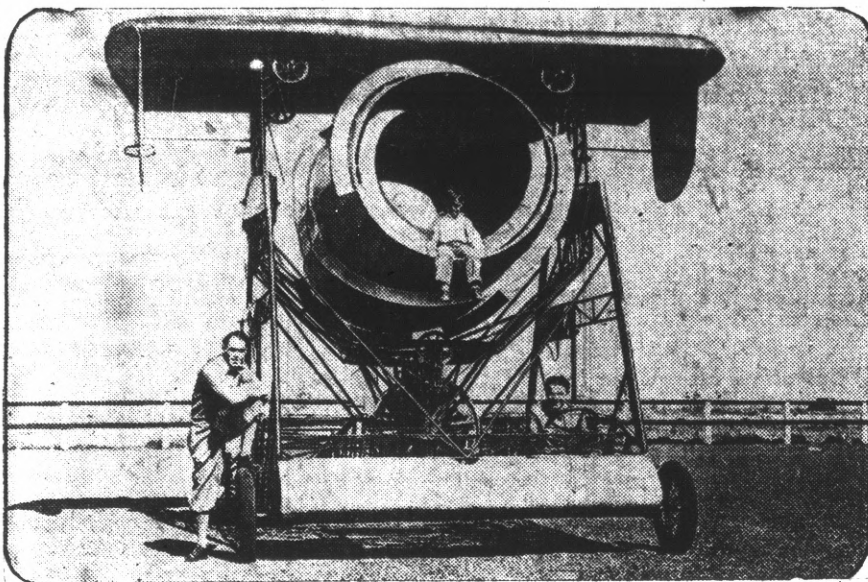

The overture will be passed down to nearly 200 presbyteries for a vote and the result will be announced at the 1930 general assembly.

Neither was the vote on the divorce overture a surprise since the result was forecast some time ago by a New York newspaper.

VISIT IN SOUTH

A day's outing in Monterey and Santa Cruz was enjoyed recently by a party of Richmond folks including Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bray, Mrs. George Keiser, Mrs. R. C. Rahwyler and daughter Eunice.

Last Word In Planes

BARREL PLANE, designed by Paul Maiworm of San Diego, will soon undergo initial tests. The barrel shape above the pilot's seat serves as a propeller. The plane is expected to fly 60 miles an hour.

MRS. TUNNEY OUT OF DANGER

POLA, Italy, May 25.—(U.P.)—

Mrs. James J. Tunney, although seriously ill, should be able to rally from her present relapse and make a gradual but slow recovery, her physicians said today.

Grave anxiety was caused when the wife of Gene Tunney took a turn for the worse and developed a high fever in the last few days.

The best medical experts within range were summoned. Dr. Arthur W. Meyer, the Berlin surgeon who operated on Mrs. Tunney for an abscessed appendix nearly four weeks ago, was called from Berlin.

The former heavyweight champion made a hurried trip to a mainland by motor boat from Brioni Island, where the Tunneys have been spending part of their honeymoon, and returned with a doctor.

The surgeon, Dr. Zeadro, who is director of the medical clinic at Rovigno, joined in consultation with Prof. Robert Cristo Folelli, noted surgeon, who came hurriedly from Trieste to the little island in the Adriatic off this port.

The two doctors decided that Mrs. Tunney's condition had improved, and an immediate operation was not necessary.

FLIERS BREAK ENDURANCE RECORDS

throng awaiting for them to beat the world's record endurance time. Reg Robbins and Jim Kelly, who last Sunday took up their old re-conditioned ship while onlookers speculated, sat at the controls of the plane "Fort Worth" and boasted "We'll stay up at least 200 hours if the motor holds together."

The spirit of the two men aloft, one a former garage mechanic, the other a former cowboy, indicated they were determined to continue their flight so long as their plane and motor permitted.

"We'll stay up 200 hours," said a message dropped from the plane, answering wondering persons on the ground who conjectured whether the "Fort Worth" would record as soon as its record was achieved.

By late afternoon the growing crowd of watchers below assumed a breaking of the record was just a matter of hours. There was no sign of weariness in the fliers or serious strain on the plane. Success of the refueling operations was established and Kelly, with his precarious explorations around the plane, was keeping in trim its engines and other parts.

The airmen, considered comparative novices until this venture, began their seventh day in the air at 11:33 a. m. today.

Notes dropped from the fliers told the amount of gas and oil needed, mentioned ailsickness occasionally and requested parachutes, but mostly their communications were in a jesting vein that reflected their cheerful morals.

J. L. Molohan Funeral Held

Services were under the direction of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

GIRLS ALMOST RUIN PEANUT 'PUSH'

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.,

May 25.—(U.P.)—The Pike's Peak proboscis peanut pusher, Bill Williams, who is propelling a goober up the mountain by means of a prong hitched to his nose, admitted tonight that peanut pushing is getting almost too hazardous to be enjoyable.

When squirrels, attempted to steal Bill's peanut while he trundled it before him, he only smiled and pushed the harder.

When a skunk, attracted by the commotion, came out of its mountain lair to watch the excitement, Bill continued to smile and clamped his nose prong on a little tighter.

When wind threatened to blow his peanut away, when a mountain thunderstorm almost engulfed his peanut, when slippery mud caused his peanut to slide, Bill smiled and pushed.

Even when his hands got sore, his knees sorer, and his nose sorest, Bill kept smiling—and pushing.

All these things—squirrels, skunks, rain, wind and physical pain—Bill, the Rio Hondo, Tex., plasterer who undertook the Pike's Peak jaunt on a bet, could stand with reasonably good grace, he said tonight.

"But these sun kissed California girls," Bill growled as he rubbed various parts of his anatomy with liniment "They nearly ruined my trip."

It seemed, according to Bill's account of the day's trials and tribulations, that an automobile load of California girls rolled up the road to the peak and stopped behind him, just as he was exerting his most strenuous efforts to keep his peanut in the road and simultaneously propel it forward without skidding.

"And then," Bill lamented, "One of them asked which was the nut—me or the goober."

That nifty, Bill continued, nearly ruined his whole day, not because he particularly minded being called a nut, but because the girls standing so close in their sun-tan back dresses and their sun-tanned knees, caused him to look up from his peanut for a minute.

"And when I looked up," Bill said, "my nose prong, it came up to, and my peanut, it started rolling back down the hill."

Leo Marcollo Given Degree As Attorney

Leo Marcollo, local attorney, graduated from the Oakland College of Law recently. He qualified to take the state bar examination in February 1928 upon the recommendations of Attorneys Thomas, Carlson and Will S. Robinson. He successfully passed and received his license to practice law from the state Supreme Court on April 23, 1928.

He was only a junior in the college when he received his license to practice law, but continued on with his college work. He received his degree in jurisprudence of the Oakland exercises.

Marcollo is a graduate of the Richmond Union high school and has attended the University of California, St. Mary's College of Law and the Oakland Law College of Law.

POISON MEAT SCORED IN REPORT

PITTSBURG, May 25.—The statement of Dr. H. E. Peters, city health officer, that ten Pittsburgh residents had been stricken with meat poisoning found support today with the report of Dr. J. G. Glege of the Rockefeller Foundation with headquarters in San Francisco.

Dr. Glege made an investigation of each of the persons Dr. Peters alleged were made ill because of impure meats and declared that "there was no doubt that the people had been stricken from eating tainted meat."

An inspection tour of butcher shops was made by Drs. H. E. Reiner and G. E. Anderson of the state department of agriculture where they found only inspected meats. The state physicians declare that they had come to an agreement with Pittsburgh butchers on inspection service and that state inspectors would be maintained here. The butchers will drop their plea for municipal inspection.
